About OUR CLUB

In late 1949, a group of friends decided to form a new Country Club. With Sylvan Cohen, one of Philadelphia's most respected attorneys, leading the effort, the group founded Meadowlands, now fondly known as "Bluestone Country Club".

The golf course was built on open and gently rolling land, where cattle and horses had grazed for years. When updated in the mid-'90s, seven new holes were created, a number of others were revised, trees were removed, and water was brought into play as the par-71 Championship Course became a more contemporary and stimulating test of golf.

Under Bluestone's Master Plan, we continuously work to ensure that our course remains a solid test that showcases the best of conditions. With six greens scheduled to be redone, The Championship Course at Bluestone Country Club will continue to greet all who play it with fresh challenges and endless enjoyment.

At Bluestone, we are so much more than just a country club, we are a community!
